BASIC-ABSTRACT:

The multi-purpose toaster has an outer housing having two lines of heating cords. The heating cords are deposited in a horizontal direction. The upper heating cord is arranged underneath the top surface of the housing, and the lower heating cord is above the bottom surface of the housing. A toasting room is put horizontally between the upper and lower heating cords of the housing and has two grids at the top and bottom side to divided with heating cords.

Several griddle holes are provided on the top surface of the housing, and are parallel to the toasting room and heating cords. Several griddles may put in the putting holes.

USE/ADVANTAGE - For cooking food as well as toasting bread. Saves time and energy.
